Oen Huisman, The Netherlands, Is One of Many Night Students

Although many students may not realize it, Columbia Basin College leads a split life.

Most of us are familiar with the college as it appears during the day. But there is also an extensive program of night classes. These classes are attended mainly by more mature students; family men and women who have developed or are continuing a pursuit of learning after their working day is over.

It frequently happens, however, that a younger student, who has a full-time job during the day, will be found in a night class. Oen Huisman, 19 years old, is such a student.

Oen was born in the Netherlands. Eight years ago, Oen's father left the Netherlands and moved with his family to Canada, a country he thought would have more opportunity than the small, crowded nation he left.

Three years ago, the Huisman family left Canada and settled in Prosser, Wash. Oen attended Prosser High School.

He had become interested in plants and plant diseases, and, while in high school, he entered a project on various diseases of the bean plant in the Mid-Columbia Science Fair. The exhibit won a prize and the admiration of some scientists connected with the Irrigation Experimental Station in Prosser. One of the projects at the station was an investigation of bean plant diseases.

Oen was able to obtain a job at the Station, where he is now employed as a plant pathologist, doing research in plant diseases. He is very happy with the work, and he hopes to obtain a science degree from Washington State University in the near future to help him in his work.

Oen, sturdy, six foot tall, has brown hair and eyes, and speaks English with hardly a trace of accent. He drives from Prosser to CBC once a week to attend his English 103 course. He enjoys English and says it helps to keep him from forgetting how to study.

CBC Co-ed Donna Egan To Journey to Denmark To Work, Attend School

Miss Donna Egan, a CBC sophomore, will be leaving from New York City, September 24 to spend at least one year in Denmark. While there she will attend the International Peoples College in Elsinore.

Upon arriving in Denmark, Miss Egan will work as a governess for three children in the home of Mr. Jorgen Bisch, of Farum, for one month. Mr. Bisch was a guest lecturer here several months ago. Classes do not begin at the International People's College until November 3, and she will arrive in the country on October 24.

Miss Egan will cross the Atlantic on the SS Stavangjord, a ship belonging to the Norwegian - American Steamship Company. She will travel tourist class and will be on the water 10 days. She has never journeyed on the ocean before and hopes to avoid seasickness if possible. The ship stops at Bergen, Norway and Stavanger before docking at Copenhagen.

Farum, where she will work after arrival in Denmark, is south of Elsinore. When classes begin, Miss Egan will take up residence in a dormitory at the college. She expects to be sharing a room with from one to five other women from various corners of the globe.

Her class schedule will not be determined until she arrives at the college. Though the educational system is different from the one we understand, Miss Egan hopes that the credits she earns will entitle her to senior status when she returns to this country.

Most of her classes will be small seminars. Completion of a class entitles the student to a certificate of completion in that class, rather than to a grade. Students measure their progress as either satisfactory or unsatisfactory. This will make a transfer of credits somewhat confusing, Miss Egan commented.

The International People's College is not a University as we understand the term. It is called a "folk high school," but offers courses in general education at a "college" level.

Since the college is self supporting, all students are required to work for the institution one hour a day. The school has its own orchards, hay fields, and wheat fields, and the students maintain all the facilities.

Students are required to have a speaking knowledge of French, German, Danish, or English, preferably English. Classes are conducted in a variety of languages, Miss Egan says. She has taken a year of high school French, two years of high school Latin, and one quarter of college Spanish.

When she finishes school, Miss Egan hopes to go into work such as that carried on by UNICEF or UNESCO of the United Nations, and she hopes that studying abroad will prepare her for work in international relations.

She has chosen to study in Denmark, rather than in another European country, because of advice from friends here and from Danish people she has met.

She wants to travel while on the continent. Doing so will depend upon the availability of money. She would like to visit a pen pal in Southern France during the Christmas holidays.

She has already acquired her passport for travel, has purchased the boat ticket, and has started the necessary series of shots.

She will get from here to New York via train.

Miss Egan is a 1959 graduate of Pasco High School. Among her CBC activities she counts membership in the Collegiate Council for the United Nations, the Young Republicans, and the Collegiate staff. She was recently chairman of the local CCUN delegation to the mock United Nations session in Eugene, Oregon.

She has worked part time at the Telephone Company

Applications Taken For New Nursing Program

The Admissions Committee for the Associate Degree Nursing Program met April 15 and received applications for the fall class.

Qualified accepting physical examination made for 10 students. Applications were deferred because as yet they are incomplete.

Applications are accepted by George H. Registrar.

The Associate Degree Nursing is a two-year program in which the students receive their education at CBC and local Tri-city schools. Upon graduation, students are eligible to write the National State Board of Nursing examination and become a Registered Nurse.

Men as well as women are accepted in the Nursing program. The Registered Nurse is in demand, especially in the field of psychiatry, anesthesia, and industrial of the officers of the Student Nurses Association.

The Junior College Degree program is especially suited for a student who lives at home, associates with other students on the campus, and of being segregated nurses home as is the in hospital schools of nursing.

TV Class To Spokane Study

CBC's Radio and Television Department journeyed to Spokane today for an all day film. They toured the studios of KXLY, Channel 3, KREM, Channel 2.

Instructor Bob Baker, KEPR, Pasco, accompanied the class. Students thought the trip was very worthwhile that they were able to visit larger studios at work.

The class is currently conducting a radio program Saturday morning on at 11:30 a.m.

The program, "On the Air," is designed primarily for CBC students.

What Is Our Real Danger?

(ACP)—If a poll were taken of what people today consider the greatest threat to the nation's security, destruction by atomic energy likely would be named most often. Is this the real danger? Or could it be merely an effect of an inner affliction — man's growing nonchalance in selling his mind to the highest bidder?

Rational, unchained minds will control their products.

The man in the shop thinks labor-wise; in the swivel chair he looks through management's eyes. The electric company employee thinks gas is out-dated; gas producers cook on the front burner.

Psychoanalysts wring the mind, while the osteopath twists the bones. Cubans think Cuban, Russians think Russian, and United States citizens think little past next Friday's check.

One Fort Worth resident helps build airplanes to kill people like himself, while painted across the top of his tool box are the words "Jesus saves" and "Are you right with the Lord?"

Lucretia . . .

Dear Lucretia:

I read a letter in your column from "Car Connoisseur" concerning the cruddy condition of the parking lots. I agree with him or her 100% —but, I don't think the idea of taking donations for paving them would work. Why not sell parking passes like they do at the bigger colleges and universities? This would provide the necessary money for paving. Just the people who buy passes could park in the paved area, while the ones who didn't, could still park in the gravelly, unpaved section. Does this sound like it would work? I know plenty of people who agree with me and would buy parking passes if such a plan was carried out.

—FELIX

Dear Felix: I agree that the parking lot needs paving. If you don't clean your car out thoroughly at least once a week the dust gets so thick that when you slam the door, you have to wait five minutes for it to settle before you can see where you are going. Maybe if you can get some more of your people friends to write in, we can get something going.

Fellow employees laughingly ignore him. Yet five days a week they help him build the planes and on Sunday they go to church. Some even donate money to feed those whom, in case of war, their labor would destroy. They, if actions speak truly, wish to kill healthy children only.

Russia makes such projects necessary, we are told. Does she also make us two-faced? Can Christian beliefs be correlated with such enterprise?

The recipe for solving the problems of humanity can't be formulated for us. It must be worked out in the individual minds. Progress might be made by making it as much a social taboo to prostitute one's mind as one's body. — Texas Christian University "Skiff."

New Nursing Prof. Selected

Mrs. Gerry White has recently joined the faculty of Columbia Basin College.

She will be co-ordinator of the associated degree program in nursing, scheduled to begin in the fall. She will replace Mrs. Mary Bauer, who is not going to teach next year.

Mrs. White received her schooling at Johns Hopkins Hospital School of Nursing, in Baltimore, Maryland, and Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio, where she received her B.S. degree in nursing. In 1957, she attended the University of Washington on a teaching fellowship and was awarded her masters degree in nursing. Master's degrees in nursing are not common.

She then taught seven years at John Hopkins University School of Nursing.

She comes to the Tri-Cities from Daytona Beach, Florida, where she was a housewife. Her hobbies include reading, gardening, and her dog, Jetta der Beebe, a purebred German-Alsacian shepherd. Alsacian shepherds differ from regular shepherds, in that they are all white or black and they are more rare, says Mrs. White. She lives in Richland with her husband; they have no children.

Mrs. White was born in Portland, Oregon. However, she spent most of her early years in the Far East, mainly the Philippine Islands, where her father, an Army officer was stationed. Mrs. White says that she has found the people in the area "very friendly."

Admission Requests Received From 268 Prospective Frosh

On Tuesday, 268 people had applied for admission to Columbia Basin College for the fall quarter of 1961-62.

Dean of Students George Askegaard, points out that this is a much larger number than had applied for fall admission last year at this time. About 85% of those who apply actually appear and enroll, he said.

A list tabulated about a week ago showed that the applicants come from a wide variety of locations, with the largest number of course from the Tri-City area.

From Kennewick there were 37 applicants, 28 from Pasco, 16 from Richland.

Others are from communities throughout Washington and Oregon, and two are from as far away as Hawaii.

The tabulated list follows. It does not include those whose applications have arrived within the past two weeks.
